Sunday Funnies

Throughout the world on Sunday mornings millions of people open their papers and look to the comic section. This selection of stamps issued by the United States Postal Service on the 16th of July 2010 are just a sampling of the cartoon strips that are read.

Beetle Bailey the laziest man in the Military first appeared in September 1950. The imagination of Calvin along with his friend Hobbes tested his parents patience from November 1985 to December 1995. Archie, started appearing in newspapers in 1946 and is an icon. Garfield, the food loving tabby cat first meandered into the comics section in 1978. Dennis the Menace has been up to mischief in the Funnies Section of papers since March 1951.
